

What is Man's Greatest Achievement

By
Tristan Barnett

According to the top ten of man's greatest achievements, walking on the moon is rated as the number 1.

Some of the comments are:

"This is a feat that will always stand up in history as the most important step in mankind in terms of science and space. If it weren't for the moon landing, we wouldn't be doing research on Mars or be trying to reach other planets now, and this landing has led to so many new scientific discoveries and possibilities!"

"This was by far and away the most extraordinary achievement of all time. This was pre main stream run of the mill technology. This was ground breaking ingenuity of the greatest kind back then, highlighting the real strive to achieve something of a higher plane that man had not sought achieve before. A great achievement never to be surpassed!"

"Apollo 11 was the greatest achievements by the human race, it showed us what we could really do when we as a nation and as a species tried".

"200 years ago if you told a person we did the other things on the list people would say, "I can believe that". 200 years ago if you told a person we would walk on the moon they would think you were insane".

These claims are assuming that there is no God (or a Supreme). If there was a God that created the universe, then God could actually travel the entire universe (and according to Vedic knowledge as documented in commentary in the Bhagavad Gita As It Is, $\frac{3}{4}$ universe is spiritual), and yet man has only managed to travel to the moon. Also, man has only managed to create a swimming pool, yet God has created an entire ocean. Further, man is unable to come up with a cure for something as simple as the common cold.

According to Vedic knowledge there are 400,000 species of humans defined by their level of consciousness. The highest level of consciousness is walking through a wall. This is actually proven scientifically through quantum tunnelling; a quantum mechanical phenomenon where a subatomic particle passes through a potential barrier. There is evidence from the Bible that Jesus was able to walk through a wall. John 20:19 On the evening of that day, the first day of the week, the doors being locked where the disciples were for fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood among them and said to them, "Peace be with you." According to Vedic knowledge, demigods (as a higher form of life than humans are able to walk through walls). Jesus had a material body (where from Vedic knowledge it is given that God has a spiritual body), which provides evidence that Jesus was not God but rather a demigod (and still able to walk through walls). According to Vedic knowledge, the gross body is comprised of earth, water, air, fire and ether. The subtle body which is also material is comprised of the mind, intelligence and false ego. Ghosts contain a subtle body (and no gross body) and presumably can walk through walls.

Hence, the greatest achievement that man can obtain is actually walking through a wall.

According to the Bible, Matthew 14:22-26 Immediately Jesus made the disciples get into the boat and go on ahead of him to the other side, while he dismissed the crowd. After he had dismissed them, he went up on a mountainside by himself to pray. Later that night, he was there alone, and the boat was already a considerable distance from land, buffeted by the waves because the wind was against it. Shortly before dawn Jesus went out to them, walking on the lake. When the disciples saw him walking on the lake, they were terrified. "It's a ghost," they said, and cried out in fear.

Also, more than 1,200 species of animals have evolved the ability to walk on water, from tiny insects and spiders to larger animals such as birds, reptiles, and even mammals.

Some mystics have been known to walk on water - this is arguably the best achievement that man has obtained.
